May 2010

Dear Principal and Teacher Liaison

NSP Competition

The National Schools Newspaper Project (NSP) is a workshop for future reporters, photographers, publishers and media giants. With this project, Media24 wants to teach primary school and high school learners to write articles, take pictures, manage newspapers, compile them, do the layout and bring the paper to fruition.

As part of NSP, we host an annual National Schools Newspaper Competition and we want to use this opportunity to invite you to enter. Huge prizes are up for grabs! Not to mention the honour of walking away with the coveted title.

Primary and high schools can enter in various categories. Newspapers that were published between 1 July 2009 and 19 July 2010 qualify. Entries close on Thursday 22 July 2010 and all entry forms are attached for your convenience. Additional entry forms can be obtained from sarietha.engelbrecht@media24.com. Visit our NSP facebook fan page or go to www.jip.co.za/nsp for more information, as well as the mark sheets and rules.

We look forward to receiving your entries.

Feel free to contact any of our NSP coordinators in your region for more information on our NSP courses in your area:
